that [illegible] Convenient decisions [illegible] taken by the Party Conf[illegible]

This party exercises sole and undivided authority

But he cannot, so to say, wash his hands of the CHO & its affairs.

Cotton [illegible] is [illegible] to fill the industrial & agricultural void - [illegible]

[illegible] oxen draw the plough - The cow is a quiet and useful animal

They see the sun rising - Four men carry the palanquin. How to do this was [illegible] understood. You will be killed, if that stone falls upon your [illegible]. My father will not return for sometime. If he should return [illegible] tomorrow, I shall be much surprised. Will you come [illegible] to see me? To stay awake at night is bad for health. School broke up at three. He broke up the meeting. Let us bathe here - They bathe him in warm water.

Bad men hide their faults. He turned to me and spoke. He turned me out of the room. He doubted the truth of my word. The sun will rise at six. He burnt with rage. The fire burnt up the house. The day breaks at six. School opens at 10 o'clock. I do not know whether he has come. The results will soon be out. The news left him disappointed. He put the engine out of order. They found him asleep. We have made him what he is. We drove him out of the house.

[illegible]ses cannot make tools. Have you shut the door? The roof of the house was blown off by the wind. The walls of the house were cracked by an earthquake in several places.

This occurs only in colloquial English. I have long been absent from home. I shall go home, but you will stop here. Were I in his place, I should pay the debt. (subjunctive mood)

I have come to ask you what am I to do. How am I to make good the damage done to you? He was startled at this sudden change in the situation. He pulled himself up and said in a pompous tone of voice, "Ah, that is a very different matter."

To err is human; to [illegible] is divine. We considered him to be the best in the class. We have no water to drink. Give him a chair to sit on. He is quick to hear and slow to speak. I was sorry to hear such bad news.

I am, - to tell you the truth - quite tired of this work. The man is in an almost dying state. Having died suddenly he left no will. That song is the most pleasing that I have ever heard. Having finished his work he went home. Having been asked a loan, he refused to give it. That [illegible] there, painting a picture, is my brother. He hears his d[illegible] singing a new song. My wife, exp[illegible]ing me to re[illegible]